

Minor patron's library cards

The Homer Public Library will not allow a parent or guardian of a minor child to open an account for said minor, if they themselves owe a library fine or have lost library materials. Our library card policy states that the person who signs for the library card is financially responsible for any fines, or any damaged or lost items and we have a no tolerance policy in place, so anyone signing for a library card will not be able to have any fines or fees on their account when signing for a minor child's library card.
